

Jeans Day 'out of line'

We would like to appeal to the gay members of the student community. What was "Blue Jeans Day" supposed to prove? Your attempt to to make the community believe that more students support your cause than actually do was really out of line. You assumed that all of the student body had heard of this insufficiently publicized "Blue Jeans Day."

Many innocent students, who never heard of "Blue Jeans Day," wore jeans as usual. Not only were many humiliated, but you also built up false walls of acceptance around the homosexual lifestyle. The next time you pull this type of stunt, request that students wear pansies all day, not "straight" jeans. C'mon fellows.

Jonathan W. Cross
Coll. I

Brett Gallagher
Coll. I

[This letter was signed by 17 other first-year students.]